

Rabo Tertiary Pathways

Your pathway to a career in agriculture

What is Rabo Tertiary Pathways?

Rabobank is excited to be offering opportunities to talented undergraduate students at select tertiary institutions. Our aim is to bring together your talent and Rabobank's resources to 'growing a better world together' by offering scholarships, internships and group research work. Students will focus on areas and topics that are critical to the ongoing success of agriculture not only in Australia, but also globally.

We are offering a scholarship of $15,000 per year to one student from each academic institution partner. Additionally we have opportunities for non-research assignments and internships, offering students the opportunity to experience what it is like working for a global food and agribusiness bank.

Is this the program for you?

Are you going into your 4th year of study in agriculture or a business-related discipline at The University of Sydney? Are you passionate about food and agribusiness? Then Rabo Tertiary Pathways could be the right opportunity for you. We are looking for bright, talented and enthusiastic students whose values align with our own. Selected students could secure a paid position with Rabobank in one of our 61 branches across Australia.

Why you should apply

Rabobank is looking for students who have an interest in sustainable agriculture, with topics including carbon emissions, water usage and biodiversity. Or there may be other innovative research topics you believe can support the agribusiness sector.

How to apply?

Please send your CV, including the degree and major(s) you are completing and your likely Honours project topic in 2023, plus a short motivation statement (approx. 250 words) regarding this scholarship opportunity, to business.engage@sydney.edu.au by COB, Saturday 17 December 2022. For more information about the program you can contact Rabobank on human.resources@rabobank.com

Rabobank is committed to a culture where diversity and inclusion is valued, respected and encouraged. We are an equal opportunity employer, welcoming applicants from diverse cultures, faith and sexual orientation.

"The unique opportunity to meet specialised people in the industry is excellent, and being able to utilise those connections to build upon your own knowledge is invaluable, and something I believe will put me in great stead for my future career within the agricultural industry."

Sam Mac Smith is in his final year of a Bachelor of Science (Agriculture) and Bachelor of Advanced Studies, he is a 2022 Rabo Tertiary Pathways Scholarship recipient for The University of Sydney.