

The University of Sydney

Code Of Conduct

1 Principles

This Code has been formulated to provide a clear statement of the University's expectations of its staff and affiliates in respect of their professional and personal conduct.

The Code reflects, and is intended both to advance the object of the University, namely the promotion of scholarship, research, free inquiry, the interaction of research and teaching, and academic excellence, as well as to secure the observance of its values of:

- responsibility and service through leadership in the community;
- quality and sustainability in meeting the needs of the University's stakeholders;
- merit, equity and diversity in our student body;
- integrity, professionalism and collegiality in our staff; and
- lifelong relationship and friendship with our alumni.

These values must inform the conduct of staff and affiliates in upholding and advancing:

- freedom to pursue critical and open inquiry in a responsible manner;
- recognition of the importance of ideas and ideals;
- tolerance, honesty, respect, and ethical behaviour; and
- understanding the needs of those we serve.

2 Application of the Code

This Code applies to:

- all University staff (including casual staff) (referred to in this document as “staff”); and
- clinical title holders; adjunct, conjoint and honorary appointees; consultants and contractors to the University; holders of offices in University entities, members of Boards of University Foundations, members of University Committees; and any other persons appointed or engaged by the University to perform duties or functions on its behalf (referred to in this document as “affiliates”).

All staff are required to comply with the obligations set out in this Code and act in a way that furthers the University's object and upholds its values. Affiliates are required to comply with the Code in respect of their activities relating to or impacting upon the University and/or its staff or students. The University may take disciplinary action against staff for a breach of the Code, and may take commensurate action against affiliates.

The duties and obligations of members of Senate are set out in the University of Sydney Act 1989 and the University of Sydney \(Senate\) Rule 2002 and this Code does not apply to Fellows when acting in that capacity. - does not conflict with their University work;
- does not adversely affect their University work performance;
- does not involve the use of University resources (except in the case of academic staff, as permitted by the University's Outside Earnings Policy);

Staff and affiliates must not solicit nor accept gifts or benefits, either for themselves or for another person, which either might in any way, either directly or indirectly, compromise or influence them in their official University capacity or might appear to do so.

Consistently with and subject to that general principle, staff and affiliates may accept occasional gifts or benefits, subject to the following requirements:

- Gifts may be accepted only if the recipient is satisfied that they cannot be compromised, or be seen as having been compromised, by doing so;
- A staff member or affiliate who is in a position in the course of their University work to confer a benefit on a third party must not accept a gift from that party;

Any gift or benefit that cannot be considered as occasional and token should be declined stating that it is the University's requirement that such gifts or benefits should not be accepted. If this is not possible because of the environment in which the gift or benefit is offered, the gift or benefit may be accepted on behalf of the University, and it should then be retained by the relevant School or Administrative Unit.

For the purposes of this Code, "gifts" include honorariums which may be retained subject, if required, to being declared on the University's Register of Gifts and Benefits.

Staff and affiliates must report any offers of bribes to their supervisor, who should then ensure that the matter is reported as corrupt behaviour in accordance with Part 12 of this Code.

Excessive and/or unauthorised personal use of any of these facilities can lead to the University taking disciplinary action against a staff member and commensurate action against affiliates. Emails (including personal emails) remain the property of the University at all times and may be accessed under court orders, Freedom of Information requests and in accordance with the University's policy on

Use of University Information and Communication Technology Resources.
